THE MOST COMMON CHALLENGES:

Whether you are a private client, an international buyer or a professional, there are recurring challenges that make the journey more complicated than it should be.

- ☐ Too many decisions to make.
Colors, materials, furniture: the risk of making mistakes and wasting money is always around the corner.
- ☐ Not enough time to follow everything.
Between distance, commitments and language barriers, managing a project becomes complicated.
- ☐ The result needs to stand out.
Whether it's your home or a property to enhance, it must have character.
- ☐ Support not always easy to find.
The right creativity and flexibility are often missing, and without guidance you risk delays and confusion.

S.M HOUSE

Chianti, Italy 2025

The project was born from the desire to enhance the identity of a Tuscan farmhouse, preserving its authentic atmosphere while reinterpreting it in a contemporary way.

Original elements — brick vaults, terracotta arches, wooden windows — are combined with natural materials and essential furnishings.

The living area, the beating heart of the home, becomes a fluid and convivial space, defined by natural light and the new stone fireplace, a true focal point for social life. A project that weaves together the charm of the past with the livability of the present.

F.E HOUSE

Bolzano, Italy 2024

The project for this penthouse in Bolzano stemmed from the need to transform a raw, unfinished space into a contemporary and welcoming home.

The living area, conceived as an open space, integrates kitchen, dining and living in a harmonious balance of functions. Large windows take center stage, emphasized by a layout that enhances depth and natural light.

Neutral tones, light wood and bespoke details create a warm yet essential atmosphere, designed for everyday living.

F.L HOUSE

Strassen, Luxembourg 2022

Apartment FL embodies the essence of bespoke design, where architecture takes center stage.

The roof slopes and complex wall layout required tailor-made solutions, developed in collaboration with Falegnameria Gasperi. Each piece of furniture was custom-made to integrate seamlessly with the structure, resulting in a non-conventional yet harmonious space, perfectly aligned with the client's vision.
